do you mean the da-da-da-daaa at the very beginning? :P (lol, just kidding) Here it is: D A E F# - pause - D A E F# (now to octave up) A G F# (now one octave lower) D A E F# (one up again) A G F#... and then the song... hope this is what you asked me.. O.ò If not tell me and I'll help you! :)

your welcome and you know what they say for some people in the Musical World "Practice, Practice, Practice"

iraiscoming223 (2 years ago) Reply | Remove yep! that's for real! The only way to win your bet! :D

the last part Lea Salonga: I cant go back to where I use to be Brad Kane: A Whole New World with new horizons to pursue in between these verse the Musical Notes are emphasized meaning lea's part is sort of high so that when brad sings his part the notes are higher. (this part is all about building up, to a great end) you're right! I noticed that! Unfortunately I was in late this morning when I played this song. (Consider is one of the first performances)... I'm gonna work on it... :) Thanks for your suggestion!! :) I really appreciate it! :)
